Will I enjoy / that / And you,

SATIRE III

S A T I R E III

Good morning, Mrs. Hartman! Will take care of you. See you later.

ONG, Dodington, in debt, I long have

To ease the burthen of my grateful thought;

And now a poet's gratitude you see;
Grant him two favours, and he'll ask for three;

For whose the present glory, or the gain?
You give protection. I a worthless strain.

You love, and feel the poet's sacred flame,
And know the basis of a solid fame.

Tho' prone to like, yet cautious to commend,

You read with all the malice of a friend;
Nor favour my attempts that way alone,

But more to raise my verse, conceal your own.

B

An

An int'm'd modesty! turn ages o'er,
 When waned Britain bright examples more;
Her Learning, and her Genius too decays,
 And dark, and cold are her declining days;
 As if men now were of another cast,
 They meanly live on alms of ages past.
A Men still are men, and they, who boldly dare,
 Shall triumph o'er the sons of cold Despair;
 Or, if they fail, they justly still take place
 Of such, who run in debt for their disgrace,
 Who borrow much, then fairly make it known,
 And damn it with Improvements of their own.
We bring some new materials, and what's old
 New-cast with care, and in no borrowed mold;
 Late times the verse may read, if these refuse,
 And from sowl Criticks vindicate the muse.

“ Your work is long,” the Critics cry: ‘tis true,
 And lengthens still, to take in fools like you;
 Shorten my labour, if its length you blame,
 For, grow but wise, you rob me of my game;

A

As

As hunted hags, who, while the dogs pursue,
Renounce their four legs, and start up on two.

Like the bold bird upon the banks of Nile,
That picks the teeth of the dire crocodile,
Will I enjoy (dread feast!) the Critic's rage,
And with the fell Destroyer feed my page.
For what ambitious fools are more to blame
Than those, who thunder in the Critic's name?
Good authors damn'd, have their revenge in this,
To see what wretches gain the praise they miss.

Balbutius muffled in his fable cloak,
Like an old Druid from his hollow oak,
As ravens solemn, and as booding, cries,
Ten thousand words for the Three Unities;
Ye Doctors sage, who thro' Parnassus teach,
Or quit the tub, or practise what you preach.

One judges, as the weather dictates, right
The poem is at noon, and wrong at night;
Another judges by a surer gage,
An author's principles, or parentage;
Since his great ancestors in Flanders fell,
The poem, doubtless, must be written well.

Another

Another judges by the writer's look;
 Another judges, for he bought the book;
 Some judge, their knack of judging wrong to keep,
 Some judge, because it is too soon to sleep.

Thus all will judge, and with one single aim,
 To gain themselves, not give the Writer fame;
 The very Best ambitiously advise,
 Half to serve you, and half to pass for wise;

None are at leisure others to reward;

They scarce will damn, but out of self-regard.

Critics on verse, as squibs on triumphs wait,
 Proclaim the glory, and augment the state,
 Hot, envious, noisy, proud, the scribbling fry
 Burn, hiss, and bounce, waste paper, stink, and die.
 Rail on, my friends! what more my verse can crown
 Than Compton's smile, and your obliging frown?

Not all on books their Criticism waste,
 The genius of a dish some justly taste,
 And eat their way to fame; with anxious thought
 The Salmon is refus'd, and Turbot bought.

O Impatient art rebukes the sun's delay,
 A And bids December yield the fruits of May.
 T Their various cares in one great point combine,
 R The business of their lives, that is — to dine,
 T Half of their pretious day they give the feast,
 I And, to a kind Digestion spare the rest.
 A Apicius here, the taster of the town,
 O Feeds twice a-week, to settle their renown.
 W These worthies of the palate guard with care
 I The sacred annals of their bills of fare,
 In those choice books their Panegyricks read,
 And scorn the creatures that for hunger feed.
 If man by feeding well commences great,
 Much more the worm, to whom that man is meat.
 To glory some advance a lying claim,
 Thieves of renown, and Pilferers of fame;
 Their front supplies what their ambition lacks,
 They know a thousand lords, behind their backs.
 Cottil is apt to wink upon a peer,
 When turn'd away, with a familiar leer;

!O

And

And H——y's eyes, unmercifully keen,
 Have murder'd fops, by whom she never was seen.
Niger adopts stray libels, wisely prone
 To covet shame, still greater than his own;
Bathyllus, in the winter of threescore
 Belyes his innocence, and keeps a whore;
 Absence of mind Brabantio turns to fame,
 Learns to mistake, nor knows his brother's name,
 Has words, and thoughts in nice disorder set,
 And takes a memorandum to forget.
 Thus vain, nor knowing what adorns, or blots,
 They forge the patents, that create them sots.

As love of pleasure into pain betrays,
 So most grow infamous thro' love of praise;
 But whence for praise can such an ardour rise,
 When those, who bring that incense we despise?
 For such the vanity of great, and small,
 Contempt goes round, and all men laugh at all.
 Nor can even Satire blame them, for 'tis true
 They most have ample cause for what they do.

Sometimes, thro' pride, the Sexes change their airs,
 My lord has vapours, and my lady swears,
 Then (stranger still!) on turning of the wind,
 My lord wears breeches, and my lady's kind.

To shew the strength, and infamy of pride,
 By all 'tis follow'd, and by all deny'd.
 What numbers are there, which at once pursue
 Praise, and the glory to condemn it too?
 To praise himself Vincenna knows a shame,
 And therefore lays a stratagem for Fame;
 Makes his approach in modesty's disguise
 To win applause, and takes it by surprize.
 "To err, says he, in small things is my fate."
 You know your duty, he's exact in great.
 "My style, says he, is rude, and full of faults."
 But O! what Sense? what energy of Thoughts?
 That he wants Algebra he must confess.
 But not a soul to give our arms success.
 "Ah! that's a hit indeed, Vincenna cries;
 "But who in heat of blood was ever wise?"

"I

" I own 'twas wrong, when thousands call'd me back,
 " To make that hopeless, ill-advis'd attack ;
 " All say 'twas madness, nor dare I deny ;
 " Sure never fool so well deserv'd to die :"
 Could this deceive in others, to be free,
 It ne'er, Vincenna, cou'd deceive in thee,
 Whose conduct is a comment to thy tongue
 So clear, the dullest cannot take thee wrong.
 Thou in one suit wilt thy whole Income wear,
 And haunt the court, without a prospect there.
 Are These expedients for Renown ? confess
 Thy little self, that I may Scorn thee less.

Be wise, Vincenna, and the court forsake,
 Our fortunes there nor thou, nor I shall make.
 Ev'n men of merit, ere their point they gain,
 In hardy service make a long campaign,
 Most manfully besiege the patron's gate,
 And oft repuls'd, as oft attack the great
 With painful art, and application warm,
 And take at last some little place by storm,
 Enough to keep two shoes on sunday clean,
 And starve upon discreetly in Sheer-lane.

Already this thy fortune can afford,
 Then starve without the favour of my lord.
 'Tis true, great fortunes some great men confer,
 But often, ev'n in doing right, they never come
 From Caprice, nor from Choice, their favours come;
 They give, but think it toil to know to whom:
 The man that's nearest, yawning they advance.
 'Tis inhumanity to bless by chance.
 If merit sues, and greatness is so loath
 To break its downy trance, I pity both.

I grant at court, Philander, at his need,
 (Thanks to his lovely wife) finds friends indeed.
 Of every charm, and virtue she's possest.
Philander! thou art exquisitely blest,
 The publick envy! now then, 'tis allow'd,
 The man is found, who may be justly proud;
 But, see! how sickly is Ambition's taste!
 Ambition feeds on trash, and loathes a feast;
 For lo! Philander, of reproach afraid,
 In secret loves his wife, but keeps her maid.

Some nymphs sell reputation, others buy,
 And love a market, where the rates run high.
Italian musick's sweet, because 'tis dear;
 Their vanity is tickled, not their ear;
 Their tastes wou'd lessen, if the prices fell,
 And Shakespear's wretched stuff do quite as well;
 Away the disenchanted fair would throng,
 And own, that English is their Mother-tongue.

To shew how much our Northen tastes refine,
 Imported nymphs our peeresses out-shine;
 While Tradesmen starve, these Philotels are gay;
 For generous lords had rather give, than pay.
 O lavish land for found at such expence! — H.
 But then she saves it in her bills for sense.

Musick I passionately love, 'tis plain,
 Since for it's sake such Dramas I sustain.
 An Opera, like a Pillory, may be said
 To nail our ears down, but expose our head.

 When Britain calls, th' embroider'd Patriots run,
 And serve their country — if the dance is done.
 “ Are we not then allow'd to be polite? ”
 Yes, doubtless, but first set your notions right.
 Worth of Politeness is the needful ground,
 Where that is wanting, this can ne'er be found.
 Triflers not ev'n in Trifles can excell;
 'Tis solid bodies only polish well.
 Great, chosen Prophet! for these latter days,
 To turn a willing world from righteous ways,
 Well, H——r, dost thou thy master serve,
 Well has he seen his servant shou'd not starve.
 Thou to his name hast splendid Temples rais'd,
 In various forms of Worship seen him prais'd,
 Gawdy Devotion, like a Roman, shown,
 And sung sweet anthems in a tongue unknown.

Tho' bold these truths, thou, muse, with truths like these,
 Wilt none offend, whom 'tis a praise to please;
 Let others flatter to be flatter'd, thou,
 Like just Tribunals, bend an awful brow. ~~Brom men a. anm mor~~

How terrible it were to common sense,
 To write a Satire, which gave none offence;
 And, since from life I take the draughts you see,
 If men dislike them, do they censure me?
 On then, my muse! and Fools, and Knaves expose,
 And, since thou canst not make a friend, make foes;
 The fool, and knave 'tis glorious to offend,
 And godlike an attempt the world to mend,
 The world, where lucky throws to blockheads fall,
 Knaves know the game, and honest men pay all.

How hard for real worth to gain it's price?

A man shall make his fortune in a trice,
 If blest with pliant, tho' but slender sense,
 Feign'd modesty, and real impudence,
 A supple knee, smooth tongue, an easy grace,
 A smile within, a curse upon your face,
 A beauteous sister, or convenient wife,
 Are prizes in the lottery of life;
 Genius, and Virtue they will soon defeat,
 And lodge you in the bosom of the great.
 To merit, is but to provide a pain
 From men's refusing what you ought to gain.

May, Dodington, this Maxim fail in you,
Whom my presaging thoughts already view
By Walpole's Conduct fir'd, and friendship grac'd,
Still higher in your Prince's favour plac'd;
And lending here those awful Councils aid,
Which you abroad with such success obey'd:
